Wambui Bahati (a.k.a. John Ann Washington), from the time she was a child, has enjoyed entertaining others. As an adult and a survivor of mental illness and domestic abuse, she has combined the wisdom and strategies that helped her reclaim her health, happiness and peace, with her gifts as a performing artist.

This has allowed her to inspire and motivate thousands of people across the United States and Canada in powerful and unique ways.

Wambui wrote, produced and stars in the one-woman musical Balancing Act [about her journey through mental illness] and play, I Am Domestic Violence. Both of these shows have received national acclaim for the unique way that they provide outstanding entertainment while dealing with important issues in our communities.

Her passion: "Reminding You of Your Magnificence."
